COMPETITION FOR YOUNG WRITERS

Do you like to write stories for children? If you are a teenager, 14-17 years old, you can participate in the Competition for Young Writers and win a prize. Write a short story about monsters or magic. It should be four to five pages long.

5 Three judges from the National Library for Children (NLC) will read the stories. They will choose the six best ones. The lucky winners will participate in a writing workshop. The workshop is free and will take place during the summer. A popular children's story writer will give the workshop.

10 A famous TV celebrity will record the winning stories on a CD. We, at the National Library for Children, plan to sell the CDs and use the money to buy books for children in hospitals.

If you want help with your writing, look at our website: www.nlc.co.uk.

You will find there ideas for improving your writing. You can also read stories that won competitions in the past.

15 Send your stories no later than May 31st, 2009 to:

nlc@library.co.uk

Video Games

by Andrew Thomas

Dr. Amy Lerner studies the behavior of teenagers in America. She wanted to find out how popular video games are among teenagers. Last year she interviewed one thousand teenagers and their parents. She was surprised to find out that 97% of all teenagers play video games! The most popular are action games, but teenagers also play other kinds of games, like sports games and puzzles.

Teenagers don't usually play video games alone. More than 70% of the teenagers told Dr. Lerner that they play with friends. "This shows that playing video games can be a social activity," says Dr. Lerner. Another interesting thing Dr. Lerner found is that 30% of the parents play video games with their children. "It is a good way for parents and children to spend time together," she says.

Most of the teenagers who play video games said it is also important for them to participate in school activities. They don't want to spend all their time only playing video games. "I tell parents not to worry when their children play video games. They only have to pay attention that their children don't spend too much time playing," says Dr. Lerner.
